Overview

Introduction

The Queenstown Lakes District is the third largest film production hub in Aotearoa New Zealand. Film production plays an important role in our district's economy, community, and global reputation. Our stunning natural landscapes are complemented by experienced local crews, equipment providers, and film support services.

In Queenstown Lakes, we take pride in sharing our environment with others, and as part of that we aspire to zero-carbon communities. Our vision is that zero waste is just something that we do here. This Directory is designed to support film, television, and commercial productions to minimise and manage their waste in our district. It offers a quick reference to a variety of local businesses and waste-related organisations that provide sustainable waste solutions and services.

This directory was made by Queenstown Lakes District Council's in-house film office, Film Queenstown Lakes, together with the Waste Minimisation team, and representatives from the local film industry.

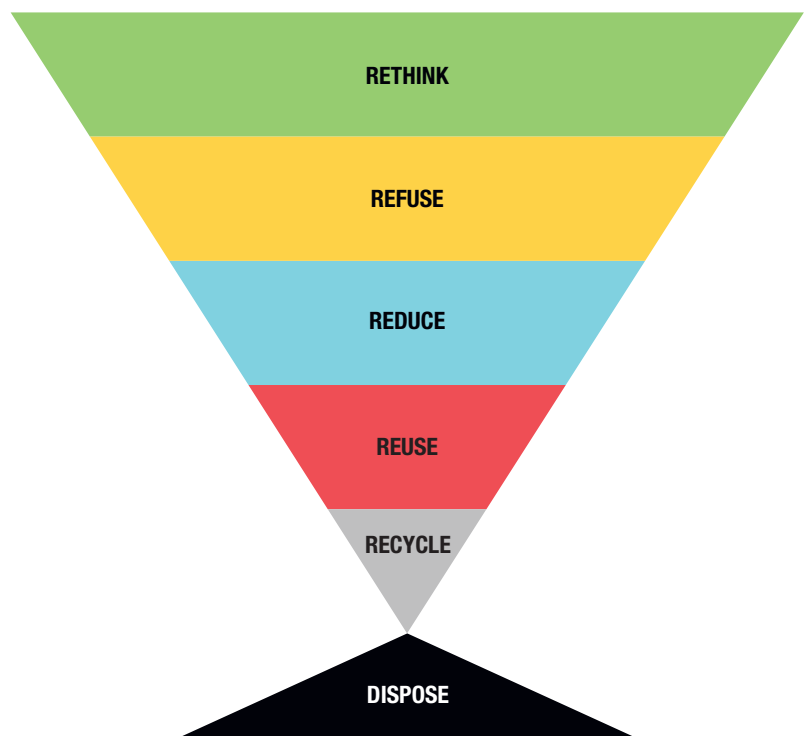

A different way of thinking

To achieve truly sustainable solutions, we all need to significantly reduce our levels of consumption and reimagine how we use resources. A circular economy where materials are used again – sharing, hiring, reusing, and repairing – is a more sustainable way of living and working.

As the film industry transitions to more sustainable filming practices, both nationally and internationally, we hope this Directory is seen as a first step to waste minimisation and management.

Ideally, disposing of waste should be a last resort. The following waste hierarchy shows preferred waste management options. By moving up the layers in the waste hierarchy, we can keep materials in circulation for longer – this reduces the amount we dispose of in landfills, and the raw materials we need to keep drawing from the environment.

THE HIERARCHY OF WASTE

How to use this guide

This Directory is in two parts:

PART ONE: An overview of the main providers that offer waste solutions and services within Queenstown Lakes District.

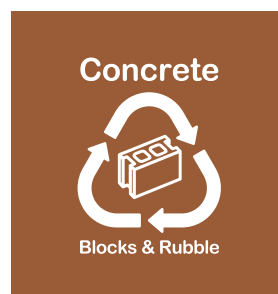

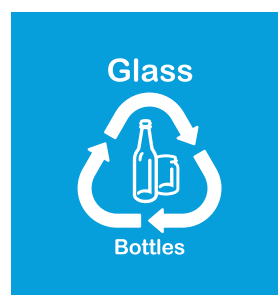

PART TWO: A materials index listing film production items by type e.g., clothing, car parts, props, etc. Details on repurposing, recycling, and disposing of these items are listed in this index.

Recycling symbols and colours

Waste organisations across New Zealand have agreed on a set of recycling symbols and colours for bins and signage, ensuring consistency across the country. Companies are strongly encouraged to use these recycling symbols and colours in their workplace recycling bins.

Recycling symbols can be downloaded from www.wasteminz.org.nz/pubs/ronz-symbols/

Te reo Māori translations for rubbish and recycling bins are available at www.wasteminz.org.nz/projects/standardising-the-colours-of-mobile-waste-and-recycling-containers/ and www.parakore.maori.nz/resources/
